

FLUTE@UCF

The flute studio at UCF turns all our flute students into professionals.

The curriculum is designed to encourage development of all aspects of the flutists' art—instrument technique, physical awareness through Alexander Technique, interpretation of classical and contemporary repertoire, the study of performance styles, and practical approaches to overcoming stage fright and performance anxiety—as well as gaining knowledge of the history of the flute, its construction and acoustics. A fresh and unique curriculum, developed for each student, allows the expression of his or her inner musical voice through the flute and encourages growth as a professional musician. In addition to weekly private lessons, students are offered opportunities to perform as soloists as well as in orchestra, chamber ensembles, master classes, camps, clinics and community events.
